Dear Colleagues:

Martin Peilstöcker and I are now soliciting article-length contributions related to Jaffa’s history and archaeology for publication in The History and Archaeology of Jaffa 2 in The Jaffa Cultural Heritage Project series by the Cotsen Institute of Archaeology Press at UCLA (within the Monumenta Archaeologica publication series). Any contributions relating to Jaffa’s history, archaeology, and cultural heritage before 1947 or to aspects of archaeological research in Jaffa will be considered.

Contributions must be reviewed and accepted first by Aaron Burke and Martin Peilstöcker, the series editors and editors for this volume. After acceptance and editing the volume will be sent out for blind peer review by the Cotsen Press. Authors should be prepared to revise their manuscripts as necessary according to the suggestions of both the editors and the reviewers.

Contributors should adhere to the style guidelines published for the project, which can be found on the following location on our website:

http://www.nelc.ucla.edu/jaffa/resources/publications.html#Contributors

Please also consult the History and Archaeology of Jaffa 1 for the established English spellings for the names of locations within Jaffa and sites nearby, as well as for lengthy historical discussions that have already been published. Summaries of historical discussions from volume one should be referenced whenever possible by new contributions. If you have any questions concerning the style or conventions of the series, please do not hesitate to contact the editors.

Completed contributions must be emailed to the editors by April 1, 2013 to guarantee consideration for inclusion in The History and Archaeology of Jaffa 2.

We look forward to receiving your contribution. Feel free to forward this invitation to anyone you think may be interested in contributing to this volume. Please do not hesitate to contact us if you have any questions.

Regards,

Aaron A. Burke
